As we enter a new year and endure the winter doldrums, Think Dutchess is pleased to share the inaugural issue of Think Dutchess Magazine, a publication dedicated to sharing the success stories, development and innovation happening right here in Dutchess County.

On these pages, you'll find profiles of some of our most creative entrepreneurs and leaders in both business and academia.

Whether it's our legendary tech sector, anchored by IBM and Global Foundries, or our burgeoning agri-business industry changing the way people think about food and drink, this magazine will give you an overview of the plethora of historic and new activity in Dutchess County.

With more than $3 billion in projects in development or under construction, Think Dutchess has positioned itself strategically to support and assist all businesses – from the garage based start-up to the large-scale research and development project.

Working successfully with businesses to find creative ways to structure and grow your organization, Think Dutchess provides a one-stop shop for getting started in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Please take a few moments to learn about our stories. If you'd prefer a hard copy, email Jasmin Haylett, at jasmin@thinkdutchess.com and we'll drop one in the mail.

Of course, our stories are much better in person. If you'd like to visit Dutchess County or see some of our available properties, we'd be happy to arrange a tour.

Think Dutchess for business... and for life.

Located in the heart of New York's Hudson Valley, Dutchess County has long been known for its high-tech industries, educational institutions and charming cities, towns, and villages, as well as its wealth of arts, culture, recreation and culinary offerings.

This magazine is designed to highlight the assets of Dutchess County and why so many people find it a great place to live, work and do business.
